

TOUGH TIMES: TALKING THROUGH END OF LIFE PLANNING

---

Conversations about end of life decisions can be difficult and even more so in times of crisis. In this talk we discuss various aspects of the end of life planning process, including advanced directives and discussions with family and health care providers. Some tools and suggestions for starting conversations will also be shared.

All are invited to attend this free public presentation.

Presented by:

Christy Simpson, PhD & Marika Warren, PhD
Department of Bioethics, Dalhousie University
Nova Scotia Health Ethics Network

Thursday, October 16, 2008

7:00pm

K.C. Irving Centre Auditorium, Acadia University
(Reception to follow in the Garden Room)

For more information, please contact:
Annapolis Valley Health
Ethics Program
(902) 365-1730

TOUGH TIMES: TALKING THROUGH END OF LIFE PLANNING

---

Conversations about end of life decisions can be difficult and even more so in times of crisis. In this talk we discuss various aspects of the end of life planning process, including advanced directives and discussions with family and health care providers. Some tools and suggestions for starting conversations will also be shared.

All are invited to attend this free public presentation.

Presented by:

Christy Simpson, PhD & Marika Warren, PhD
Department of Bioethics, Dalhousie University
Nova Scotia Health Ethics Network

Thursday, October 16, 2008

7:00pm

K.C. Irving Centre Auditorium, Acadia University
(Reception to follow in the Garden Room)

For more information, please contact:
Annapolis Valley Health
Ethics Program
(902) 365-1730